

The following guidelines for are intended for those interested in sharing and repurposing California Quality Collaborative (CQC) program content. For clarifications on usage or requests for permissions, email cqcinfo@pbgh.org.

- 1. Restrictions on Use: Course materials provided by CQC are intended for personal use and learning purposes only. Any sharing or repurposing of content outside of this context requires prior written permission from CQC.
- 2. Crediting CQC: If you have been authorized to use the materials, you are required to clearly credit CQC as the source. This includes citing the full name of the program (if applicable), the California the Quality Collaborative and the URL of the CQC website.
- 3. No Alteration: Please refrain from altering, transforming or building upon the materials without express permission from CQC. If alterations are allowed under specific circumstances, clear guidelines will be provided to ensure that proper credit is given.
- 4. Non-Commercial Use: Course materials must not be used for commercial purposes unless a specific agreement has been arranged with CQC.
- 5. Quality and Representation: When using the materials, please ensure that they are represented accurately and in a way that does not misrepresent or distort the content.
- 6. Respect for Privacy: Please respect the privacy and confidentiality of individuals featured in CQC program content. Obtain any necessary permissions or releases before sharing or repurposing content that includes identifiable individuals.